

FORT KLAMATH TO BE WET TOWN

PLAN OF INCORPORATION IS REJECTED BUT ONE SALOON WILL PROBABLY BE MAINTAINED IN HOTEL THERE

By a vote of 34 to 16, at a mass meeting of citizens, Fort Klamath has rejected a proposition to incorporate the town. The question came up as a result of the new law which prohibits the selling of liquor outside of incorporated towns, except under certain conditions.

It was a representative gathering that heard the arguments for and against incorporation, and the vote is considered decisive.

The new law provides that liquor may be sold in a hotel which has accommodations for fifty guests. Under this provision it is expected that Fort Klamath will continue to be a wet town in spite of the rejection of the incorporation plan.

PRINCE PAT TO SHOW IN CITY

WORLD RENOWNED EDUCATED HORSE WILL ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON—DOWN EVERYTHING BUT TALK

The greatest equine headliner over the largest and best vaudeville circuits in this country and Europe opens a four nights engagement at the popular Star theater, commencing with a special matinee for the children Sunday, March 23. Manager Houston states that Prince Pat is the highest salaried act ever presented to the Klamath Falls public, and only through friendship of long standing existing between J. V. Houston and E. J. Smith, owner of Prince Pat, was Mr. Smith induced to stop here while on route to San Francisco.

One of the first things Prince Pat does when he arrives in town is to go to the postoffice and inquire for his master's mail. He then goes to the different livery stables, and if the places do not suit him, he shakes his head and gives the owners the "horse laugh." He is very fond of chocolate creams, and answers any noose questions by the nod or shake of the head. He works as well for a stranger as he does for his trainer.

In connection with the show there will be produced a two-reel feature film, "In the Den of Lions," depicting a $25,000 circus production.

ADMIRAL WAS ARSENIC FIEND

NEIGHBOR TELLS POLICE STORY THAT MAY HAVE BEARING ON THE DEATH OF REAR ADMIRAL KATON

United Press Service
NORWELL, Mass., March 22.—The hunt for persons implicated in the poisoning of Rear Admiral Katon continues. It is rumored this afternoon that the state police plan to practically demolish the Katon house in the hopes of discovering some evidence.

Thomas Tom, a neighbor, told the police that Admiral Katon habitually ate arsenic, and that he had probably taken an overdose.

The admiral's widow is very calm. She is in jail, but predicts that she will be released very soon.

MALIN FARMERS TO BE FAVORED

CREAM STATION WILL BE ESTABLISHED BY MERRILL DAIRYMAN—WILL OPERATE LAUNCH ON THE LAKE

G. A. Thoma, the local creamery man, states that if the ice is broken up enough next Sunday he will take a trip to Malin in his launch, the Mayflower, says the Merrill Record.

Mr. Thoma is contemplating putting a cream station at Malin, in order to save the farmers of that section the time and trouble of hauling it to this place.

He stated that he would likely make two trips a week in his launch to Malin and get the cream which has been deposited there and haul it back. This is about the most time saving scheme that could be figured on.

For some distance the lake near Malin is very shallow, and to get to land in a launch is impossible. Mr. Thoma is going to undertake to remedy this hindrance by either building a walk out into the lake or digging a channel. If he makes the trip Sunday it will be to look over the feasibility of such a plan, and to start work, in order that the boat may be running in a short time.
